DRESSING for SUCCESS at the PWHAT JAMBOREE

MURFREESBORO, TN

The Pleasure Walking Horse Association hosted their Jubilee Dress Show on October 25th with Peggy Moore choosing this year's champions. The dress show was the final competition on the PWHAT show schedule.

Class after class showcased pleasure horses from the Walking, Racking and Spotted Saddle Horse industries. Claiming the most blues of the day was Maggie Moore. She accumulated seven wins throughout the day.

Fun for All at the WFOA Fall Festival

OAK GROVE, KY- The Walking Horse Owners' Association hosted the WFOA Fall Festival Walking Horse Show on October 16th-18th at the Oak Grove Gaming Equestrian Center. WFOA management was very pleased to announce 248 entries. Choosing this year's champions were Jason Bachert, Sandy Harris and Mike Locke.

Two Best of Show divisions served as the grand finale. Claiming top honors in the Best of Show Amateur & Youth class was Trixie Mattel with owner, Jared Phy in the irons. He's On the Wall and Dakota Gardner were reserve champions.

The final grand champions of the show were from the Best of Show. Winning the top awards were Please, Please, Please and Victoria Jamison. Toreador and Keegan Meadows claimed the reserve title.

Jared Phy and Trixie Mattel were the Best of Show Amateur champions.

*Victoria Jamison directed Please, Please, Please to the Best of Show victory.
Cheyanne and Dakota
Gardner own the entry.*

BEYOND THE BREEDING BARN

ALLEN ALL AROUND

Some horses collect blue ribbons. Allen All Around built a standard. Owned by Butch and Vicki Ritter, the bright-chestnut stallion was bred by Donald Hendrix of Nahunta, Georgia, by Commanding Delight and out of I'm A Doll. His pedigree is anchored by four World Grand Champions, including broodmare sire 1963 WGC Sun's Delight D, with ties on both top and bottom to WGC Midnight Sun. The foundation was there from the start, and Allen spent the next two decades proving it in public.

ALLEN ALL AROUND

He made his show-ring debut in 1999 and was purchased by the Ritters in 2001. Under the careful direction of many different riders including Scot and Lynn McGregor, Mical Spooner, and Zach and Jessica Parsons, Allen became the horse you could count on when the lights were up and the rail was crowded.

His record is as clear as it is rare. Across 292 career appearances, Allen posted 159 wins, 69 seconds, and 31 top three finishes, finishing in the top three placings 88.7 percent of the time. He sharpened on the biggest stages, with seven championship wins at the International Pleasure and Colt Championship Show, and twenty-eight championship wins at the NWHF National Championship shows. He is a multi-time international grand champion and a multi-time National grand champion, a résumé that stretches beyond rail classes into model and in-hand, versatility, dressage, and reining. He showed up, ears forward, businesslike, and he did the job in any ring that asked.

There were ambassador moments, too. In 2010, Allen represented the breed at the World Equestrian Games exhibiting through a week of exhibitions with the same steady temperament he showed at home. He was the kind of stallion you could point at the public and feel proud. That mix of presence and manners carried straight through his farewell season. In 2016, at nineteen, Allen showed four times and earned three unanimous ties. On a Saturday night at the Nationals, the crowd rose, the retirement speech was read, and the chestnut many called The Legend made one last pass down the rail. Then he went to the breeding barn, where his influence deepened.

ALLEN ALL AROUND

Production has always been the measure of a stallion. Allen's has been steady and substantive. He was first awarded TWHBEA Sire of the Year in 2013, then again across a sustained run from 2018 through 2024, an honor calculated from both points and percentage points, with multiple statistical categories from the TWHBEA Sire Summary. Those awards are earned over a season, not in a single headline class, and they reflect exactly what breeders want to see, foals that keep showing and keep winning.

Allen's offspring win across divisions, and they do it year after year. Many carry world titles. The roster of blue-ribbon champions includes Allie All Around, All Around Midnight, Tailored By Allen, Allen's Heart Throb, Allen Gottaround, Against Evil Forces, Allen's Morning Doll, Allen's Tennessee Lady, All Around Masterpiece, Gin All Around, Around 50 Grand, Zack's Pride of Allen, Allen's Bossy Lady, All Around Ava Rose, Rockin All Around, Scouting All Around, I'm Coming Up Roses, Allen's Golden Nugget, Allen's Golden Bella, Pushing Allen, Miss Sarah Allen, Katie All Around, An All Around Gem, Allen's Danni Delight, Hi Flyin' Special Effects, Special Effects, Sansa, I'm A League Of My Own, Royal Reign All Around.

Many have stood as International and National headliners, and they sit alongside a deep bench of winners that fill programs with honest, competitive horses.

Ask trainers why they like riding Allen's get and the answers repeat, big engines, good minds, a straight, clean way of going, colts that start right and keep their composure when the ring gets tight. Ask owners why they keep them and you hear the same themes, sensible, durable, competitive across seasons. The qualities that carried Allen from his first gate call to his last such as temperament, conformation, versatility, and grit are the same ones he passes on.

ALLEN ALL AROUND

It is also a story of longevity. Horses do not reach numbers like these by luck. They reach them by through different riders, judges, venues, and divisions. Allen's career did not come in one burst. It came across years, and it came against the best. That is why his résumé reads the way it does, and that is why breeders keep circling his name when they plan their next foals.

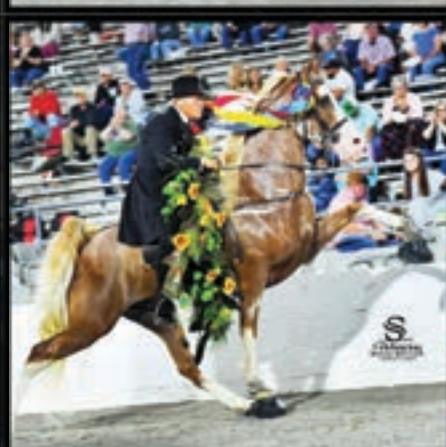

Today, Allen All Around stands at R Gaited Ranch in Loudon, Tennessee, proudly under Butch and Vicki Ritter. He is the kind of horse that improves a mare and steadies a program. If your goal is production that shows up constantly in the show ring with blue-ribbon ways, Allen's history and the horses that carry his name make the case.

For information on breeding, contact R Gaited Ranch, Loudon, Tennessee.

A LIFETIME OF HEART, HORSES AND HERITAGE

In the quiet beauty of Moorefield, West Virginia, surrounded by rolling farmland and mountain air, Lisa Shockey has built a life defined by hard work, compassion, and an unwavering love for horses. At 62, her journey reflects not only decades of dedication to the Tennessee Walking Horse but also a lifetime of lessons learned in friendship, faith, and perseverance. From her earliest childhood memories to her triumphs under the bright lights of the Tennessee Walking Horse National Celebration, Lisa's story is a beautiful blend of country roots and champion dreams—a story that continues to inspire everyone lucky enough to know her.

For Lisa, life in Moorefield was filled with the simple joys of small-town living—neighbors who felt like family, long days spent outdoors, and horses that shaped her earliest memories. Her father, Jonah Shockey, and cousin, Kenny Webster, taught her to ride when she was just a young girl. From that point on, horses weren't just a pastime—they were part of her identity.

Her first pony, a Shetland named Peanut, holds a special place in her heart. He wasn't just her pony—he was everyone's pony. "He was the neighborhood pony," Lisa recalls fondly, "and I had to share him with all my cousins." One summer, she and Peanut entered the local fireman's parade, pulling a small cart adorned with a handmade sign reading, 'Support Your Firemen—Come to the Carnival.' That simple act won them the parade and the hearts of everyone watching. Peanut lived out his days with the Shockey family, a reminder of where it all began.

Her father later founded the Hilltop Saddle Club, hosting local horse shows on their farm that drew riders from surrounding counties. The events became legendary in the area—long days of laughter, friendly competition, and family fellowship. "Sometimes there would be 22 horses in one class," Lisa recalls. "People would sit and watch all day long. Those shows created a sense of community that I'll never forget." Those early experiences instilled in her not just horsemanship, but a deep respect for the camaraderie that defines the equine world.

At just 14, Lisa owned her first Tennessee Walking Horse, Miss Paulette, and earned her very first win in 1980 at the Rockingham County Fair in Harrisonburg, Virginia. Her first-ever horse show, the Tri-County Fair in Petersburg, West Virginia, remains etched in her memory. "The grandstands were full, the lights were bright, and I remember thinking how important I felt riding out there. It was a feeling I'll never forget," she says. Over the years, Lisa's natural ability to connect with horses—her gentle hands, patient approach, and understanding of their individuality—set her apart. Those who watch her ride often describe her as graceful yet strong, confident yet humble.

Though life pulled her away from the show ring for a time, fate had plans to bring her back. In 2009, she hauled a Spotted Saddle Horse to Howard Hamilton at Southern Serenity Stables, where Patrick Thomas was training. That trip changed everything. After winning a Novice World Championship at SSHBEA, Lisa knew she was home again—this time in the world of Tennessee Walking Horses. “After that win, I just knew I wanted to be part of the Walking Horse industry,” she recalls. “It felt like where I belonged.”

What began as a single horse in training turned into a partnership that has lasted for more than sixteen years. Lisa’s collaboration with Patrick Thomas and the Southern Serenity Stables team has led to a string of incredible successes. Along the way, she also became a valued client of Gannon Stables, where Jonathan Baskin now trains her standout horse, One Special Poison.

"I am so blessed to have two great barns," Lisa says proudly. "Both Southern Serenity and Gannon Stables are filled with people who care deeply about the horses and about their customers. Together, they've helped me achieve more than I ever imagined."

Those achievements are nothing short of remarkable. Over the years, Lisa has owned multiple World and World Grand Champion horses, including World Champion King Dollar, Three-Time World Grand and Nine-Time World Champion Lucky Daze, Ace of Jacks, World Champion Jose Desperado, and World Champion and Reserve World Champion One Special Poison. Each horse represents not just a win, but a chapter in Lisa's story—a reflection of her determination, her trust in her trainers, and her love for the sport.

Among them all, Lucky Daze holds a truly special place in her heart. Under Lisa's ownership, this remarkable horse became a household name in the Walking Horse industry, capturing the hearts of fans and judges alike with his smooth gait, undeniable style, and charisma in the ring. His victories at the Tennessee Walking Horse National Celebration in 2012, 2013, and 2014 marked an extraordinary run of excellence, including an unforgettable night in 2013 when he won five classes unanimously, two of which came just seven classes apart. “That night was pure magic,” Lisa recalls. “It was one of those times where everything just came together—the horse, the ride, the moment. It’s something I’ll never forget.”

That same passion carried into her 2011 win with King Dollar in the Park Pleasure Novice World Championship, a performance that was both her and the horse’s first time at the Celebration. “We went in with no expectations,” she said. “Just to be there was an honor—but to win, that was a dream come true.”

What makes Lisa so beloved throughout the industry isn’t just her success in the show ring—it’s her humility, kindness, and the joy she brings wherever she goes. Known for her infectious laugh and genuine spirit, she’s as much a friend as she is a fierce competitor.

As a full-time hairstylist and part-time dog groomer, Lisa’s talent for working with people shines just as brightly as her talent with horses. She listens, connects, and builds relationships that last. “I think being a hairstylist has taught me a lot about patience and communication—qualities that help in the barn, too,” she laughs. When she’s not working or showing, Lisa can be found enjoying life's simple pleasures. Warm-weather days are spent outdoors, while winter gives her time to cook, craft, and volunteer in dog rescue efforts. Though she never had children of her own, she has been a guiding influence in the lives of many young people, helping to raise and mentor the kids who have grown up around her. "I might not have my own children," she says, "but I've got a lot of love to give—and I've been blessed to share it."

For Lisa, the show ring is more than a place of competition—it's where her heart comes alive. "I get so nervous before I go in," she admits with a smile. "But as soon as I enter the ring, that feeling disappears. The ride takes over, and there's nothing like it." Her favorite time of year is the Fourth of July shows, both the week of and before, that combines patriotic celebration with her favorite pastime. "I love those shows because I get to spend time with friends I've made through the industry," she says. "It's like a big family reunion with a little friendly competition thrown in."

Her philosophy is simple: every show is a chance to learn. "I've never been seriously hurt, thank goodness," Lisa says. "But every ride teaches me something—something to make me or the horse better next time."

Lisa's influence in the Tennessee Walking Horse community continues to grow. She credits Patrick Thomas as her greatest mentor, someone whose showmanship and guidance have helped her develop her skills and confidence as a rider. "Patrick has been there from the beginning," she says. "He's taught me so much—not just about riding, but about believing in myself."

That belief has become a cornerstone of her success. "The best advice I've ever received," she shares, "is to believe that I can do whatever I set my mind to. And to always watch the best riders in the ring—study them, learn from them, and use that to improve."

Looking ahead, Lisa has her sights set on capturing another World Grand Championship title, but more than that, she hopes to see the industry she loves continue to flourish. "I want to see the Walking Horse industry grow and stay strong," she says. "There's so much talent and heart in this community—it deserves to thrive."

From her first ride on Peanut in the town parade to her world-class victories on Lucky Daze, Lisa Shockey's journey is one of grace, grit, and gratitude. She's a woman who embodies the very spirit of the Tennessee Walking Horse: strong yet gentle, elegant yet enduring. Her story reminds us that success isn't just measured in ribbons or trophies—it's found in the memories made, the friendships built, and the love shared between horse and rider.

As she looks to the future, Lisa continues to do what she's always done—work hard, ride with heart, and lift up everyone around her. Because whether she's behind the reins or behind the salon chair, one thing is certain: Lisa Shockey is a champion—inside and beyond the ring.
